

A high-angle photograph of two young children playing with a large set of wooden toys on a light-colored wooden floor. The toys include a complex road layout made of interlocking wooden pieces, a small wooden house with a tiled roof, a gas station with a sign that says "GAS STATION", and several small wooden cars and trucks. One child, with blonde hair, is kneeling and moving a small car. The other child is sitting on the floor, looking at the toys. The scene is brightly lit, suggesting a sunny day.

OPEN ENDED PLAY · OUR DNA · 2021

We develop more than toys. We develop people.

Crateit was founded in 2021 by Tonny and Martin, two students with an idea: wooden toys that both stimulate children's cognitive development and provide meaningful employment to people often overlooked in the job market.

01

Hands

Every single part is shaped, assembled and packed by people. Not machines.

02

Heart

We build identity, community and pride. One toy at a time. Our production happens close to the people it helps.

03

Action

We create meaningful work in Danish sheltered workshops.
